Yes it is very close to being final...maybe it'll be final by Monday or so. Also, the but the fact sheet is probably best as it covers many points. Not aware of any analysis that specifically examines tourism though.

Hi Rona,

A freelancer working on a documentary for Nat Geo & Huff post is doing a piece and he's asked to speak with someone at EPA about how climate change affects the residents and wildlife in the DMV area and how climate change affects tourism. (Pretty narrow scope.) I haven't seen the latest draft of the D.C. Climate Impacts fact sheet, but my understanding is that the text is final/close-to-final, and I was wondering if there was anything relevant in there we could pull from. If we don't feel comfortable putting anyone in front of the camera, we could always send a written response.

Let me know what you think.

Thanks,
Isabel

Good morning!

Ex. 5 - Deliberative Process

Let's discuss on Monday when I am back. The producer can tape on 11/22, 23, 25 or 28. It would only be these two q's:

- How does climate change effect the residents and wildlife of the DMV area?

- How does climate change effects tourism?

Thanks!

Subject: MELISSA: National Geographic On-Cam Interview Request about Climate Change

Good afternoon! I spoke to this producer, Zakee. The highlights:

- He is producing from a Nat Geo grant given to him.
- It will run on Nat Geo digital and in Huff Post.
- He is interviewing an American University professor (Prof Joshua McCoy) and former EPA employee (Jared McKee) who is now with Nat Geo.
- He can do the on cam on 11/18, 22, 23, 25 or 28.
- Everyone interviewed agrees climate change is real and is happening.

How would you like to proceed?

Hello,

I hope all is well. My name is Zakee Kuduro and I am a freelance producer with Nat Geographic. I was referred to talk to you from Jarred McKee as we are currently working on a short documentary project on Climate Change and Tourism in DC and would love to interview someone whom you deem fit. Let me know your thoughts. Looking forward.
